TRAMP TRAMP TRAMP AGAIN ON THURSDAY

Snowshoers To Set Forth As Of Old.

GOOD TIME EXPECTED.

Ample Refreshments Promised
At Journey's End.

What will probably be the most popular outdoor social event of the season will take place on next Thursday evening when a snowshoe tramp will be held under the auspices of the Y.M. and Y.W. This tramp will also serve as the inauguration at McGill of the Snowshoe Club, a club which promises to be one of the most thriving at the University judging by the interest taken in it.

This snowshoe tramp will take the place of the skating party which they had intended to hold this week and, judging by the expressions of opinion around the campus it will be even more popular than were the parties on the campus rink. Arrangements have been made whereby those intending to make the tramp will meet in Strathcona Hall and partners will be secured for everyone as is the case when skating parties have been held. The executive of the McGill Y.W.C.A. has entered into the plan with their characteristic vim and the party promises to be a success.

There are only a few students at the college at the present time who remember the jolly times which everyone had at the snowshoe tramps held in the years before the war. In former days the chief trouble was in securing accommodation in the Hall to serve refreshments after the tramp; with the turnout expected next week it is entirely possible that the large hall on the main floor of the "Y" building will be once again taxed to its utmost. After the tramp is over there will be hot refreshments awaiting the party at the Hall, and the party should have an ending as pleasant as the main part of its programme will be jolly.

The revival of the Snowshoe Club comes as a distinct pleasure to many who have viewed with sorrow the apparent lack of interest in this branch of sport. At the present time, there is an unusually large number of expert snowshoers at the college and they will now be given ample opportunity to show their skill. The programme of the club includes races and tramps at various times throughout the winter. Of course, the most important part of the club's activities will consist of the snowshoe races which will be held whenever possible.

MCGILL JUNIORS DEFEAT THE Y.M.

Fast Basketball Game At Central "Y" Last Night.

The Junior team again upheld the honor of McGill when they defeated Central "Y" in a fast game of basketball. The "Y" team started off well and ran up a lead of six points in the first few minutes. Harris was shooting well for "Y" and succeeded in making four fouls before McGill could find the basket. Mendlesohn replaced Parke and McGill began to settle down. Brown also raised the score two points. Turpin, who replaced Root, got another basket before the end of the first half making the score 8-7 in favor of the "Y".

Art Ross again changed the team in the second half, replacing Buschere by Powell. The team played much faster and soon overcame the two point lead. Mendlesohn kept up his good playing, getting five goals and two baskets. Brown and Turpin showed up well with two baskets each. McCaffrey replaced Mendlesohn towards the end of the game, just as the "Y" began their last effort to even up the score, but when the second half ended McGill had a lead of ten points. The final score was 24-14 in favor of McGill.

The line-up:
McGill: Brown, Harris, Turpin, Yule, Schwartzman, Murch, Bussiere, Harnott, Mendlesohn, Hewatson.
Spares—McGill: Parke, Powell and Root.
"Y": Ord.
Summary of scoring—
McGILL:
Baskets—Mendlesohn, 3; Brown, 3; Turpin, 3.
Fouls—Mendlesohn.

MCGILL AGAIN VICTORIOUS IN HOCKEY MATCH

Defeated Victorias By Large Margin.

SCORE: 9-0.

Behan and Heney Scored Six
Of the Nine Goals.

Playing in their best form, the Senior sextette overwhelmed Victorias last night by the score of 9-0. The decisive result came as a surprise to many, as Victorias were expected to give the Red and White a hard game. The McGill team put up a wonderful exhibition, and played rings around their opponents from start to finish.

It would be difficult as well as unjust to pick out any particular star, as the College team as a whole played perhaps the best brand hockey that they have shown so far this season. Their combination was sterling and their checking sure. Slater and Dawes, the backbone of the Victoria team, were too closely watched to be effective. Law, in goals, was rather weak, and his defence gave him very little support.

"Boo" Anderson's back-checking was in evidence as usual, and time and again he broke up promising rushes. Behan and Heney were the chief goal-getters, each with three to his credit. Clarke, although his work was not heavy, looked after the shots he had in splendid style. The forward line performed like clock-work; their combination was never better, and travelling down the ice three abreast they fooled the whole Victoria team time after time.

Coch Shaughnessy kept the men fresh at all times by continual substitutions. McGill is fortunate in having such competent "subs" as Earle Anderson and Dineen—the regulars can be given a rest at any time without negligible loss to the team. Victorias had no systematic substitution plan, owing no doubt to their lack of good spares. The team-work of the College players made the game an interesting one to watch in spite of the fact that Victorias never had a chance.

First Period.
Play opened at a fast clip, with both teams checking hard. Slater broke away from centre ice immediately after the face-off, and gave Clarke the first shot of the game, an easy one to handle. Behan relieved, and, carrying the puck up the ice, scored the first goal on a shot from outside the defence, two minutes after the start of play. Fifty seconds later, Heney got through, and bulged the net for the second goal.

Dawes and Slater attempted some combination, but the back-checking of the McGill forwards foiled all their attempts.

Law, the Victoria net-minder, was given a number of shots in quick succession to look after, and "Boo" Anderson bated a rebound before he had a chance to recover. Heney scored the fourth goal by a pretty piece of work a minute later. The Victoria team was swept off its feet by the onslaught of the McGill forwards, and Law had an unpleasant time of it the remainder of the period. Luck and a few good saves left the score at 4-0 when the gong sounded.

Second Period.
The second period started with McGill still rushing things. Law was kept very busy, and when the period had progressed three minutes, Behan and Heney went down the ice together stick handling their way through the whole team, the latter scoring on a pass in front of the net. Victorias were trying hard to hold the College team at this stage, but all attempts were unavailing. Cully made one of his spectacular rushes and found the net before the defence had a chance to attempt a check.

Behan scored at his own end, and, exhibiting some pretty stickhandling, passed the defence, and drawing Law out of his net poked the puck in with ease. Cully and Heney made some good rushes and kept the Victoria defence on the jump continually. The play became somewhat rough and McGill played four men for several minutes as a result of penalties.

Towards the close of the period, Victorias began to play better hockey, and Clarke had a few shots which he looked after very well. McGill's checking weakened a trifle at this point, and Slater broke through on several occasions. Dineen made the score 8-0, however, in the last minute, from a scrimmage before the Victoria net.

COMMERCIAL SOCIETY HOLD GOOD MEETING

Mr. McCullough, Formerly Of Dale & Co., Reads Paper on

MARINE INSURANCE.

Large Audience Were Pleased
By Interesting Subject.

Society held last evening, the principal speaker was Mr. McCullough, formerly of Dale and Co., and now lecturer in the School of Commerce and Insurance. Mr. McCullough gave a very interesting paper on "Marine Insurance." He opened his remarks by showing how important it was to know and understand the laws governing the forces of nature. Man, from the earliest days, has battled with these forces, sometimes going down to defeat, only to rise again to devise some new method of conquering them. If he could not overcome these adverse conditions of nature, then he sought means to avoid them or to accommodate himself to their effects. The earliest trade routes were overland, following the paths of least resistance. Thus, if there were hills, or lakes, or forests intervening in the direct path of his journey, primitive man would avoid these obstacles by going round them. Man, however, differing from the beasts of the field in being a thinking animal, soon began to create rude devices for overcoming the obstacles in his commercial paths. A trail would be cut through the forest, a rude craft would be built to cross a lake or river, thus avoiding the necessity of encircling these barriers. His rude craft, however, encountering the winds, waves and currents found on the lakes and rivers soon showed its defects and a stronger vessel was built.

Water Routes.
Since water routes offered the easiest means of communication between the settlements of primitive man, it is but natural that he should have discovered means of navigating these highways. The overcoming of the simple physical forces operating on the inland waterways was a comparatively easy task, and the natural love of adventure coupled with the desire for better, in the course of time led man down to the larger seas and finally to the oceans where he found the mighty forces of the deep aiding him in their periods of calm, but when unleashed threatening him with destruction. Gradually he acquired a knowledge of these physical barriers which hindered the unrestricted use of the waterways, but not having developed sufficiently to devise

FRENCH CONSUL TO SPEAK HERE

Mde. Verneuil Will Address
the Cercle Francais
Wednesday.

Those who were beginning to grow skeptical as to whether the Cercle Francais would ever hold another meeting, will be compensated for their patience on Wednesday evening, the 4th inst., when the usual dinner and meeting will be held. The members will meet in the Dining Hall of the Presbyterian College, 67 McTavish street, at 7.30 p.m. sharp, when dinner will be served.

For the literary part of the evening the Cercle are fortunate in having secured a very prominent speaker, in the person of M. Marcel de Verneuil, French Consul-General in Canada, who will address the members on the subject of "The French Language spoken at the Front." Prior to his appointment to this high post, Mr. de Verneuil was serving with the French army at the front, and from the topic he has chosen for his address, it may be seen that he is gifted with a keen power of observation, and a literary frame of mind. The subject should prove highly interesting, especially to those who are taking a course in French at the University.

In addition to this distinguished speaker, the members of the Cercle will have the pleasure of meeting some of their pros, in the Department of French, and this should especially be welcome to the students, who will not be required to hand in compositions or be submitted to quizzes, which some students are in the habit of doing in the class rooms. On the whole, an enjoyable evening is assured, and all members of the Cercle are asked to keep the date open and to turn up on time.

The Students' Point of View

A university is composed of a collection of individuals who may be divided into two equally important groups, the students and the staff. It is scarcely necessary to state that these integral parts are in entirely different positions as far as the management of a university is concerned. In his respect a college is different from almost all other corporations.

In conducting an ordinary business organization it is considered necessary that the opinions of all the partners should be consulted and, in the more advanced corporations the employees are given a voice in the management. The ideas of students are not taken into consideration when changes are contemplated at a university, and yet, it can scarcely be said that their interest in the welfare of the institutions with which they are connected is less than that of a laborer in the organization of which he forms a part.

It is a deplorable fact that the governing bodies of our universities should manifest so much conservatism that they are unwilling to give consideration to the opinions of the students. Newly appointed members of the staff are often found willing to act in sympathy with the expressed desires of the student body, but, as they become more saturated with the spirit of their fellows, it is found that they grow distant and unapproachable.

Throughout the universities of the country it is an accepted fact that the students should have complete control over their own activities. We find, however, that there are complaints coming from all of the student organizations because of the interference from the higher authorities in the guise of a multitude of committees and governing bodies. The point has been reached where the student is accepting his college course in the same spirit as he would a course in high school, and the majority of them now consider it useless to make any suggestion as to what changes should be made. There are others who would be pleased to make suggestions but they fear that they may draw down wrath on their heads. In this respect, they are not without cases to cite in order to show the fate of others who have attempted to give suggestions or to make complaints.

It has been stated that progress is not possible without discussion. If this statement may be considered as being based on fact, then might we rightly state that there can not be much progress possible at our colleges. When the governing bodies of our universities ask for the opinions of the student then we may hope for some advancement.

At McGill, the Students' Council could be used as a medium whereby the students could be brought into much closer touch with Corporation. At the present time its principal function is the control of athletic activities and it could easily assume the more important work. However, the manner in which co-operation may be secured is unimportant at the present time; the fact of importance is that co-operation must be secured.

Something New

Thanks to the co-operation of the McGill Snowshoe Club and the "Y," an event that is reminiscent of another phase of pre-war activity is announced for this Thursday. An "old-time" snowshoe tramp, such as they are arranging for, should prove itself to be most popular. A social event such as this, is unique in that it is a complete change from the indoor functions, where floor-space and accommodation is limited, and where some do not feel at home or at ease. With Mount Royal as the location, and snow-shoeing as the social medium, an enjoyable and congenial evening is assured for any number who may choose to attend, however great the number may be. In days past, not a night of the winter passed without the mountain echoing and re-echoing the sound of the leader's bugle, and the merry shouts of the snowshoers, for that sport has been one of long-standing popularity. Once again, probably for the first time in many months, Mount Royal will echo with her old-time merriment; it will be a "night out" for old McGill, and will, undoubtedly be the first of many enjoyable meets and functions for all who are enthusiastic in snowshoeing and the great outdoors.

MEMORIAL SERVICE MOST IMPRESSIVE

Memory of Sir William Osler Honored At Cathedral.

A large number of students and graduates were present at the memorial service for the late Sir William Osler, which was held in the Christ Church Cathedral Sunday afternoon. It was indeed fitting that this last tribute should be paid to him who was one of McGill's most famous students and later a member of the professoriate.

The service opened with several hymns which were favorites of the great man and sentences following the well-known passage "In My Father's House are many Mansions" were read. The address was delivered by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Symonds, who took his text from the book of Ecclesiastes. Dr. Symonds opened his remarks by stating that it was both a duty and a privilege thus to honor the memory of one of our greatest Canadians. The speaker summed up the character of the man when he stated that Sir William Osler was a Canadian of broad and catholic tastes and interests, the result of wide and intelligent reading. He was a man of literature with the very highest ideals of life and its values.

The service was concluded by the hymn "To whom the sick and dying" which was indeed appropriate.

during the week. There are several clubs in the city with which competitions can be arranged and plans for races with members of other athletic organizations are already under way.

The M.A.A.A. Snowshoe Club has an unusually large number of members at his present time and they are anxious to meet the men from McGill in races at any distance. When it is considered that we have several students who have already distinguished themselves in this branch of sport, it is not too much to hope that they will bring additional honors to the college.

Intercollegiate competition can also be secured very easily as Dartmouth University has a club which is anxious to meet any of the other college teams in America. The prospect of a trip to the American college and a return engagement with their men here will be sufficient to bring large numbers of students to the club. In addition, the World's snowshoe championships will be held at St. Johns in the near future, and it is hoped that a representation from McGill will be sent down to take part in the races.

For the present, the main thing to do is to look up your snowshoes and see that the harness is in good shape. Letters are being hastily sent by many of the students with appeals for the necessary apparatus and it is hoped that they will all have arrived by Thursday at 8 o'clock. The place—Strathcona Hall. COMMERCIAL SOCIETY HOLD GOOD MEETING means of overcoming them, he was compelled to skirt along the shore, of the continents in his rude craft, darting from headland to headland seeking shelter in time of storm and laying-to at night. Often to avoid treacherous stretches of water, man would drag his rude craft overland, or tranship his cargo over a neck of land to calmer waters beyond.

Natural Law Discovered.

The growth of commerce created the desire for easier and safer routes of travel, and men began to study the forces of the universe in order to control them. Certain individuals in advance of their generation began to discover that there was such a thing as law in nature and that these natural forces, untamed as they seemed to be, were but the effects of the sun and the moon and the stars. They discovered the rudiments of astronomy and by means of the stars were enabled not only to navigate at night, but to navigate during the darkness away from the coast lines and over the broad expanses of inland seas such as the Mediterranean. It was also discovered that the earth instead of being flat was round and there were mariners courageous enough to brave the terrors of the unknown oceans in an effort to prove that by sailing West the East Indies, the fabled land of the Middle Ages, could be reached.

Ocean Navigation.

Once entering the mighty expanses of the oceans, the hardy mariners discovered that the physical forces which they had encountered on the inland seas, were magnified many fold. In these great bodies of water vast flowing streams were found, and over their surface were belts of wind and sections of calm. Then again the physical forces would be unleashed and the surface of the deep would become a raging maelstrom in which they would be all but engulfed. The faith of these pioneers being vindicated by the discovery of America and of the ocean routes to the East Indies the overcoming or circumventing of these physical forces became increasingly necessary, if man was to obtain the full use and enjoyment of his world. Gradually gaining knowledge by experience, in time, the laws governing the action of these forces of nature have been determined and their effects discovered. By applying this knowledge to navigation, types of vessels have been developed able to resist the action of these forces. As the localities and times of greatest danger become known, these were avoided. Not only has this been done, but man has gone further and has adopted these forces for his own use and has laid out his water routes over these portions of the oceans where he can be aided by the winds and currents.

Letters of a Freshman

By Frank D. Genest.

Strathcona's Hall,
The McGill University,
Jan. 30th, 1920.

Dear Pa.—Well Pa, being as how the January exams are over, I can chase you off a few lines, so to say. I got 90 marks in Privs, and Hys, and 89 in International Law. If my old beetle-track writing wasn't so dum poor, I would have made good marks, but they're lots of chances yet, eh Pa!

You might reckon that my mind was free and easy like now that the exams are over temporary, but such ain't the case and this is the reason. It was just my dratted luck to leave the old Ingersoll to home when I went up for the exam. After writing for about an hour and a half, I had a hankering to know the time, and by crickey, there I was without my watch. Little Si sure was up a tree cause its again the rules to talk and the like during an examination. Well, Sir, I argued back and forth with myself for a half an hour and finally I said I'd do it. So I waited until Mr. Billy Nicholson, the gent in charge of the exam, wasn't looking, and then I whispered to a guy near me for the time and he held up his watch. I looked at it and then ducked my head quick like, all of a quiver, for I thought Mr. Nicholson seen me. That's the hull story Pa, and I sure do feel more easy in my mind now that its off the old chest. Still and all, it was kind of a low down trick and I'm sorry I done it. In fact, I've got half a mine to go and tell Mr. Nicholson what I done and maybe cause I'm kind of famous up here at the McGill, he wouldn't take off more's 25 or 30 marks.

Listen here, Pa, take notice that I'm through with my roomie, Austy Heron permanent, so help me Brussels Sprouts! If he hadn't of done me some good turns when I first come up here, I'd give him a dum good bust on the jaw and this is the reason. A ways back, I met up with a smooth little R.V.C. etc and seeing as how she liked me pretty good, I asked her to come to the movie pictures and she said she would. Maybe little Si ain't a cut-up with none of the women nor nothing, eh Pa. Seeing as how I wasn't familiar with none of the Montreal theatre play houses, I asked Austy Heron which was the best movie picture palace and he replied back that the Gayety har 'em all looking like six nickels or some such gab. So long about 8 p.m. o'clock, I called at the Royal Victorian College in one of these here Pink cabs you probably heard tell about. Maybe you seen their ads in the Montreal Daily Star paper—"Take a Pink cab and save ten"—The cab what put the tax in the taximeter?—"Our drivers are all honked husbands, so you know what to do to them," and so forth etc. Anyways, I and the little R.V.C. etc drove down to the Gayety in the Pink cab and just to show her I was not one of these here three flushers, I bought box seats, the price of same totalling to $2.00 or $2.25 if you take into account the water tax. We was showed to our seats and no sooner had we sat down when some feller yells out—"Well, strike me pink, if it ain't old Si Whiffletree and the wife." I looked around and drat it all, there was a whole bunch of Law students sitting together. You can bet a couple of your prize heifers I was madder a horned toad. Before I could reply back, another feller hollers out—"Does he know you use Herpicide, Si?" I was just a going to climb over the rail for to give this smart Alexander a dum good bust on the jaw when the stage curtain ascended up. Right there, Pa, I quite cold and couldn't help coloring up a hull lot and this is the reason. The hull stage was filled with beautiful girls which would have been alright by itself, but they was dressed that scanty, I had to turn the old bean away. By crickey, it wasn't right. In fact it wasn't dignified. Seeing as which was the case, I says to my lady friend—"Let's get out of here immediate," and she says—"I think that would be best." So we hot-footed it up the isle. Lucky for me the Law lads was all looking at the girls on the stage when we left. Anyways, I called a Pink cab again and drove the little R.V.C. etc up to the college. Listen here, Pa, if anybody asks you, tell them little Si Whiffletree, '21 Laws says that the R.V.C. etc are in the top-hole absolute, as Mr. Eric Smith puts it. You know as well as I do that this here R.V.C. etc had a perfect lie to go and get her dander up just like this English Canadian did, but when I told her the hull thing was a mistake, she said she understood perfect, and mentioned incidental that there was a good show on at His Majestys next week. Pretty nice of her to tell me about it, eh Pa! Anyways, I says if we didn't go to His Majestys, I reckoned I'd take her to the Vendetta Gardens which you probably heard tell about.

(pretty good eh Pa!) to all the boys up Well Pa, give my best red garters to Hank Day's store next Saturday night and remember me to Ma and the girls.

Your loving son,

ST ALOYSIUS WHIFFLETREE.

P.S.—I seen a jim dandy automobile car up to the Auto Show recent. She runs on her own gasoline and is equipped with horn and head-lights complete. The agent feller told me do beat all how many lads has cars over she was a bargain at 4000 berries. It to the Faculty of Laws, Pa!

Third Period.

Play was again fast at the start, and rushes from end to end were much in evidence. "Yee" Honey made several plays that brought the crowd to its feet. Both teams checked hard and sure, and the goal-tenders were in no danger for some minutes.

Clarke stopped some difficult shots from Slater and Magee, and on a rebound Behan stole the puck in front of his own net, and, fooling Law, scored his third goal of the evening. Play again became rough, and both teams played a man short.

The last five minutes of play saw Law working harder than ever; the McGill forwards broke through time after time, and only luck left the score still 9-0 when the final gong sounded.

TENNIS CLUB.

The annual meeting of The McGill Lawn Tennis Club will be held at the Union at five thirty sharp on Tuesday, Feb. 3rd. Business—election of officers for the ensuing year. All men interested in tennis are kindly requested to attend.

he second fixture of the evening;

between M.A.A.A. and Westmont, resulted in a win for the former by the score of 6-5.

Play was fast, and the game was an exciting one. Till the very last minute, the result of the game was in doubt.

WESTERN CLUB.

All Westerners are asked to attend the next meeting of the club which will take the form of a supper at the Union, followed by a business meeting of the club at six-thirty Thursday evening.

It was thought by the executive that more would be able to attend a meeting at this hour, than, in these busy times, is possible later in the evening. There is important business to discuss, but the meeting will be brief and those who have other engagements be at Notman's to-day at five p.m.,

R.V.C. NOTES
"A COMING EVENT."
There are teas and Teas. The "Tea" to be given in aid of the University Settlement on Saturday afternoon next, at R.V.C. promises to be unusually attractive.
Let there be any misapprehension in this regard we may say that the gentlemen will find this event of great interest. Which is why a limited supply of tickets has been placed on sale at the Union and at Strathcona Hall. Have you secured yours yet? You are assured of a big 50c worth of enjoyment.
The thing one does is to take one's lady friend to the Queens-R.V.C. basketball match and then drop over to the R.V.C. to enjoy the tea and music. One's friends will all be there.
To-day at one-thirty in the R.V.C. gymnasium there will be a practice to learn the Queens-Yell and the R.V.C. songs for the Queens-R.V.C. basketball match on Saturday. Come and bring this "Daily" with you.
Go Hit the line for R.V.C.! For we must win to-day!
We will show the girls of Kingston That the Red and White hold away! Sweep down the field again—Victory or die!
And we'll give a grand old cheer—Rah! Rah!
While the team of McGill goes by.
There is a College of McGill, of McGill
And we will ever love her still, love her still,
And remember friends and laughter free
Of college days at R.V.C.
R.V.C. we love to praise thee
To thy fame our voices raise we
And remember that they name to us
I sail, is all

Macdonald

LOCAL TEAM TRIMMED MAC. ON SATURDAY

Team From St. Annes Easily Won Hockey Game.

SCORE: 7-3.

College Team Has Good Style But Lacks Practice.

The fact that Macdonald has good hockey material which has received comment from time to time was well established again Saturday in the St. Annes-Macdonald game. However, Saturday's game was witnessed by not a large number of spectators, the severe cold being of course the principal obstacle preventing a large attendance of the fair sex.

The first period, while allowing St. Annes to get three goals, showed some good fast playing, and some team work. In this the star performance of Buchanan and Welsh at combination proved to be the main attraction and substance of Mac's plays. These men worked hard but unfortunately by no chance did any goals stalk about awaiting capture during this first part of the game for us. But, Buchanan and Welsh weren't men spectators, consequently by a pretty pass from Buchanan to Welsh, Welsh got the rebound and shot goal. During the second period many changes were made in the line-up, Ness and Winters taking places with Peatress and Richardson and vice versa, along with several other changes giving Mac a chance to score twice more. This ended the second period and tied the score for the beginning of the third period.

St. Annes realizing that the college men from across the way were not insignificant and puny contestants to be disregarded, spurred their ardour into a burst of speed which Macdonalds defence could not hold. Again and again did the "Aggies" attempt to block their forwards but to no avail. This fast work netted our opponents three more scores, due to Lepine beating out Richardson in all three instances. The game now slacked up for a few minutes but finally St. Annes cut the time shorter by landing another goal. The total score being 7-3.

The line-up for the game was as follows:
Mac: Richardson, Cooper, Parker, Peatress, Buchanan, Welsh.
St. Annes: Champagne, Cyplot, Lalonde, Lepine, Pilon, J. P. Kent.

Spares for Mac were: Ness and Peatress; and for St. Annes: Williamson.

In view of the fact that we have such good material as has been shown previously, fast and playing fairly good combination, it is our opinion that we sadly need a good coach. Two or three men playing well cannot win the game unless support is given. We ask that every man, who can possibly get out, practice, and perhaps somebody taking an interest in our team development will aid in some good coaching. So, fellows, "come over into Macdonald and help us" put up the best battle formation at the next game.

MANDOLIN CLUB GET NEW MUSIC

Some of the Very Latest Selections Added To Repertoire.

The second regular meeting of the Mandolin Club for the second half of the session took place last evening at Peate's studio. Some new marches were tried and met with instant approval. The popular music which was supposed to have been on hand for the practice did not arrive, but next Monday evening it is bound to be there. As the club will play at several social functions in the near future it is necessary for everyone to get down and get a "squin" at some of the one-steps, fox-trots, waltzes, etc. Come on down next Monday night and "You'll be surprised."

ERIC BOULDEN ADDRESSED Y.M.

Spoke On Preparation For Agricultural Leadership.

Many of us have often paid several dollars for a book which did not compare in value to agricultural students as the speaker in question gave to his audience Saturday morning.

As a preparation for Agricultural leadership, the importance of college life must not be overlooked. Such was the gist of the talk given by Mr. Eric Boulden (who needs no introduction to the students at Mac), at the regular Y.M.C.A. meeting in the Men's Residence.

The farmers have become "a power in the land, an aduow, more than ever, will need men capable of doing things. And it is to the Agricultural Colleges that they are looking for these men, so let us up and get ready to do our part.

There are two classes of men in these colleges, those taking up Agriculture as a vocation, and those taking it up as a profession. The time is coming when these two classes will have to become separated. The two courses do not give best results when combined, because the aims of the two classes are widely different, and justice cannot be given to both.

The social life in these colleges runs more smoothly than in institutions situated in cities. There is little social life outside, and whether a man be a modern Croesus, or as poor as the proverbial church mouse, he has the same social opportunities.

As regards actual learning, we should use our own text-books where possible. We might have access to the best library there is, and never go inside it; but if we pay down hard cash to a text-book, we expect some return for it, and so make use of it. Besides this, they are useful after graduation, the more so as you can put your hand on any information you want.

To get the most out of this college life, there should be friendly co-operation between the students and the staff. The members of the staff are usually only too willing to be of service, and to advise either individuals or the various student organizations. Unfortunately, however, enough advantage is not usually taken of this by the students.

In conclusion, Mr. Boulden emphasized the importance of taking part in the various student activities, which develop in us the spirit of fairness and justice so necessary in a leader of men.

EMMA GEE COURSE COMMENCES TODAY

Brig-Gen. Brutinel Will Lecture On Organization Of Machine Gun Corps.

Brig-Gen. Brutinel, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., who is to open the series of Machine Gun lectures this afternoon at 5.15, is a French civil engineer, who was in Canada at the outbreak of war. He immediately offered his services to the Canadian military authorities and was given command of the Auto Machine Gun Brigade, which was re-organized in Ottawa in August, 1914. This unit proceeded to France in June, 1915, and was attached to the 1st Canadian Division. Major Brutinel, as the Canadian Corps expanded, was given command of the 1st Canadian Motor Machine Gun Brigade, which was formed of five batteries.

In the Somme fighting, he used and developed the machine gun barrage, and his ideas were adopted throughout the British Army.

In 1917 he was appointed Corps Machine Gun Officer, with the rank of Lieutenant-colonel, being in charge of the machine guns in the Canadian Corps. At this time there were in the corps 236 guns over which he had command. These were 16 companies and 5 motor machine gun batteries.

In 1918, four batteries were formed, each under command of a Lieutenant-colonel. Col. Brutinel was given command, for the Aulons and succeeding shows, of the Independent Force, consisting of all the M. G. Battalions, the Canadian Corps Cavalry, the Corps Cyclist Battalion and the two Motor Machine Gun Brigades. He was given the rank of Brigadier-General at this stage.

To the Editor, McGill "Daily."
Dear Sir:—
As there seems to be a number of individuals about the University who are not yet aware of the editorial policy of the "Daily" with reference to what comes under the general term Physical Education it may be that a reference to it at this time may save considerable controversy in future.
It is the opinion of the managing board that some form of physical exercise should be included in the routine of every student and especially those of the first two years. To force it down the throat of upper classmen we consider unwise and it would seem that the whole matter would be well left to the jurisdiction of the Students' Council.
As far as Military Training is concerned it is felt that the C.O.T.C. is a big asset to the University and we will in the future, as we have in the past, back the institution and its work. We have however never at any time during the session advocated any system of compulsory military work nor has the Students' Council of which we are the mouthpieces, and any policy which we may adopt in the future will not include an attitude favorable to a system of Military Work forced upon students.
I remain, Sir,
Yours,
E. S. MILLS,
Chairman of Managing Board.

The Editor, McGill Daily:
Dear Sir,—I venture to make some suggestions for the next session of the Mock Parliament.
First, that the question of R.V.C. suffrage should be seriously considered. For why should our fair co-students be debarred from airing their views in our males may say as much as they like, House of Uncommons, when the mere whether it be wisdom or foolishness?
Secondly, I should like to suggest that some provision be made for those honorable members who, agreeing with neither party, would still like to take part in the mis-Government of our happy country. These might be called the Independents, as each member would be a separate party under his I should also like to draw the attention of the library entitled "Every-volume in the library entitled "Every-volume of honorable members to a small body's Guide to Parliament," which is a concise summary of Parliamentary Rules and Procedure. It is a small book, well worth reading.
Trusting that these suggestions may prove helpful.
I remain, Sir,
Yours sincerely,
M. (M) P. for "IPSE."

The Editor, McGill Daily:
Dear Sir,—In your issue of the 31st inst. you state that the hockey team of Law '21-'22 defaulted their game to Dentistry '23. I beg to state that there is no such team. The class teams representing the Law Faculty are Law '20 and '21, and Law '22. Owing to the error in your paper, we were uncertain as to which team should appear, and request that the game be played at an early date in the future.
Yours truly,
A. F. McGLLIS,
Hockey Representative.

Ed. Note.—The schedule for the inter-class hockey which was published in the issue of Jan. 24th, had the game in question down as Dent. 1st vs. Law 2nd and 3rd, Jan. 30, 6.30-7.30 p.m. The schedule was given to us from official sources, and was hence presumed to be correct.

PLANS PREPARED FOR MED. BANQUET

Dr. Harvey Cushing Of Harvard Will Be Guest Of Honor.

On Saturday night the annual banquet given by the Medical Undergraduate Society will be held in the Place Viger Hotel. All details for the event have now been worked out and it only remains for the men of the Faculty as a whole to come forward and get their tickets.
The menu will include all those dishes which that hotel has the reputation of preparing. In addition jazz music will be played during the dinner by one of the popular quartettes of the city.
The guest of honor will be Dr. Harvey Cushing, Professor of Surgery of Harvard University who is a man of international fame. He will in addition to speaking at the banquet, give a clinic at one of the hospitals Saturday morning. The men of the first three years are especially requested to get their tickets as soon as possible as some idea of the total number to be present is necessary.
THE UNION DANCE.
There are still a few tickets available for the Union Dance which is to be held on Friday evening. Undergraduates who intend coming will do well to procure their tickets immediately as the sale is now open to graduates and the supply is rapidly diminishing. The price is $5.00 per couple.

CAMPUS COMMENT

And while we're freeing up here, the Daily Californian reports that the U. of Cal. men are having fine fast rushy work-outs in the land of Sunshine. Happy days.

The latest thing at Yale is sanctioned Sunday sports. If some of the snooker-friends here see this, they'll want the Union open seven days a week; they must have exercise.

Pinero seem to be a favorite with the campus actors; our Seniors are falling back on him, and the studies at Tufts report successful practices of his "Dandy Dick" for performance there in the near future.

Our local aquatic men should soon begin to start something, in view of the coming inter-collegiate meet; a Varsity man recently plunged the length of the bath, but as he exceeded the minute time-limit, he had to be satisfied with a "mere" 58 feet.

Judging by the long faces on some of the Varsity men Saturday p.m., Varsity is doing some tall "plunging" in circles other than aquatic.

A parallel to the coming "Y" financial campaign here, is the recent "Y" campaign at Varsity. The honor of the first canvass went to the Red Men's prep. class; shows they realize a good thing.

We hand it to the U. of Illinois "Y". They are hard at it getting summer employment for the undergrads. Already 150 men have office positions for the summer an important Chicago firm. Almost every student that has applied for work has been given a position through their efforts; an average pay-rate is 50 cents per hour.

The National City Bank of N.Y.C. has offered two scholarships at Illinois for men to train for foreign banking service in the company's branches. The idea is a good one, and should spread.

THE ESSENTIALS.

"And so you learned French thoroughly while over there, son?" said the proud father of the returned soldier.

"Sure! I got so I could say hello and good night and order ham and eggs, and I could ask a fellow to lend me money and tell a girl I loved her better'n anything and that's all a fellow needs in any language."

BELGIUM'S GRATITUDE.

Belgium and Britain have a high regard for each other. It is impossible, of course, that it should be otherwise after the events of which the world knows. Belgium, too, and in that the Belgian sovereigns have given the example, knows how to do the graceful thing. And that is a very valuable factor in the harmony of international relations. The happy knowledge of the art de vivre between nations has prompted the Belgian Government's courteous offer to return Captain Fryatt's vessel, the Brustards, to England, though she was recently adjudicated by the prize court to Belgium. It was in the Brustards that Captain Fryatt was made prisoner by the Germans.

HE WAS GOING TO BE SOMETHING

A colored man in Philadelphia requested his employer to release him so that he could go South.

"What do you want to go for, Lafayette?"

"Cos I've called to a church down dar."

"Called to a church? What are you going to be?"

"I'm goin' to be sumfin. I dunno whedder I be de pasture or de sextant or de vestreman; but I'm goin' to be sumfin."

simple, rational, decimal Meter-Liter-Gram, or metric standards. Nation after nation has taken the same course until today 34 use metrics exclusively, and in 212 the metric units are predominant. Of all civilized nations, U. S. America and Britannia alone cling to the antique confusion of measuring methods forced upon Britain by the Hanseatic League.

World standardization, world unity, world understanding, cannot be brought about until Britannia and U. S. America have become standardized with the rest of the civilized world through the exclusive adoption of Meter-Liter-Gram.

the father, is sick, and is now travelling for his health. The need of money is so urgent that the four children are driven to extremities, and at length they plan to leave their home to a Mr. Crane. One condition of the lease is that white servants must be on hand. Here is where their troubles commence, for their servants do not turn up, and so the Daingerfields determine to act as servants in the meantime. This is done unknown to Mr. Crane, the gentleman who leases their home.

All the comedy centres round the fact that they are unused to act as servants. Ultimately they are found out, and as the curtain rings down a love match begins.

For all who have a spare hour, "Come Out of the Kitchen" will prove a pleasant relaxation.

LOEW'S.

The entertainment presented at Loew's this week has been surpassed by none yet presented at this theatre, and is far above the average in the variety and novelty of the acts. From start to finish the bill afforded wholesome, exhilarating laughter and loads of fun.

Martin and Elliot, two young men, gave an unusual and excellent exhibition of graceful dancing and fine singing, highly amusing sketch. H. Johnson and Company also presented a sketch, but dealing with high society and with an amorous youth and an infatuated girl and an irate father. The plot afforded ample material for action, and the display of cracking good jokes, Chic and Harvey gave much good singing and clever dialogue. The fast and best act was presented by Four Jacks and a Queen, which beggars description and must be seen to be appreciated to its fullest extent.

This good show was made still better by a good comedy picture. Loew's British and Canadian Weekly and the feature photoplay "John Petticoats" starring William S. Hart.

THE HOLMAN.

The bill at the Holman for the first part of this week is up to the usual high standard maintained by this playhouse. The feature play was "Redhead" starring Alice Brady, who is a popular among Montreal picture fans. It tells the story of Daizie, a cabaret dancer known as "Redhead." Matthew Thurlow, the nephew of a wealthy dancer, is married to her whilst drunk one night at the cabaret, by a justice of the peace who is present. The following day he wishes to be released but "Redhead" refuses. When the uncle hears of his escapade he severs connection with him. Thurlow begins to go to the devil, but his wife takes him in hand and makes a man of him. He makes good at a job, but refuses to bestow any affection upon his wife who loves him. His uncle, hearing of his success, endeavors to make Daizie set him free, by offering her money but again she refuses. Matthew at last realizes that he loves her and tells her so. His uncle relents, and all ends happily.

Mabel Taliaferro is featured in "Mite of Love," a benefit picture for the "Actors' War Relief Fund." It shows the influence of love in a home.
